ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

To God is the glory. First and foremost, my sincere gratitude goes to God Almighty, the beginning and the end of all things in life, who spared my life and gave me the hope, opportunity, rear privilege and wisdom to successfully overcome the challenges associated with the completion of my doctoral programme in Accounting at the University of Lagos.

Without the assistance, physically, morally and financially; and unrelenting efforts of some people, whom God used for me from the commencement of my Ph.D. programme to its completion, it would have been a very difficult, if not an unattainable venture for me. Many people contributed greatly to the success of this research work, I therefore, with all sincerity of purpose, gratefully acknowledge their support.

My special and sincere thanks go to my supervisors: Dr. Simon Sunday Aso Arowomole (Distinguished Fellow), Dr. Olatunde Julius Otusanya and Dr. Semiu Babatunde Adeyemi. I remain ever indebted to Dr. Simon Sunday Aso Arowomole, an indefatigable, shrewd and uncompromising teacher, whose understanding, tutelage and encouragement together with his fatherly inspiration and financial support saw me through in my Ph.D. programme. Sir, you are an epitome of a truly loving father, I salute and appreciate you. Dr. Olatunde Julius Otusanya, my immediate past Acting Head of Department, demonstrated high sense of commitment and brotherly love to me. He is always ready to assist and give appropriate advice as the need arises. In deed, I am grateful to you for your encouragement and I sincerely appreciate you. I pray that God Almighty will bless and reward you abundantly. I thank you very much. I cannot but remember my former Acting Head of Department, who is also one of my supervisors, Dr. Semiu Babatunde Adeyemi whose critical analysis of academics gingered my resolve to continue with my Ph.D. programme. I appreciate you and thank you so much.

My special thanks and appreciation go to my current Acting Head of Department, Dr. (Mrs.) Solabomi Omobola Ajibolade, an astute and meticulous academic of good repute, for her painstaking and constructive criticism of my research work, which no doubt added value to the thesis. May God bless you ma. I sincerely appreciate and respectively thank Professor Babatunde Omoniyi Ogundele and Mrs. Catherine A. Ajayi; who together with Dr. Simon Sunday Aso Arowomole first started to tutor me and saw me through the completion of my M.Phil programme and my subsequent transfer to the Ph.D. programme. Although, Professor Babatunde Omoniyi Ogundele and Mrs. Catherine A. Ajayi have retired from the service of the University of Lagos, they are not tired to give me the necessary advice, encouragement and moral support needed to bolster me on my Ph.D. programme. For all of these, I am very grateful and I remain indebted to the two of them. I also appreciate our former Head of Department and former Dean of the Faculty of Business Administration, Professor Eddy Olajide Omolehinwa for giving me moral support and encouragement.

My deepest gratitude goes to the immediate past Dean of the Faculty of Business Administration, Professor Benjamin Emukufia Akpoyomare Oghojafor, who continually encouraged me to pursue and get my Ph.D., as that is the only way to be relevant in the academics. He once challenged me that he was not going to allow me rest until I get my Ph.D. He made good his threat by always asking me about the progress of my work anytime and anywhere he saw me, to the extent that I used to dodge him. Today, I am proud of him because the challenge he gave me became one of the pillars of success in my Ph.D. programme. Our Dean, your moral and financial support for me in the course of my Ph.D. programme is immeasurable. I pray that God Almighty will reward you and your entire family abundantly. Thank you Sir.

My profound gratitude also goes to the current Dean, Professor Rasheed Kolawole Ojikutu, who immensely contributed to the success of this research work. His fatherly advice and suggestions cannot be quantified. He was never tired to review my work and offered relevant advice which assisted in producing a quality thesis. I thank you Sir. I remember Dr. Joseph Oluwaseun Ige, a former Co-ordinator of the Department of Accounting for his brotherly advice and encouragement on my Ph.D. work. I say a big thank you Sir and God bless. My appreciation and thanks also go to Dr. Adedeji Ishmael Adeleke who took time out of his busy schedules to go through my work and offered relevant suggestions with respect to the analysis of my data. I thank you so much. I also thank Dr. Sunday Ayoola Oke of the Department of Mechanical Engineering for his words of encouragement and advice.

I cannot quantify the contributions and co-operation of my academic colleagues in the Department of Accounting towards the success of my research work. They include: Mr. Samuel Olunlade Adelaja, Mr. Emmanuel Kayode Akerele, Mr. Joseph Babatunde Akeju (Josseylad), Mrs. Jumoke Omowunmi Ogunleye, Mr. Gabriel Damilola Fagboro, Mr. Okwy Peter Okpala, Mrs. Marte Olayinka Uadiale, Mr. Arthur Avwokeni, Miss Oluwabunmi Atinuke Ogunmeru and Mr. Mohammed Kayode Ajape. I thank you all for your contribution in one way or the other to my academic success. God bless you all.

I also acknowledge the contributions of my colleagues on the Ph.D. programme, whom we shared thoughts, ideas and experiences together during the course of this research work. They include: Mr. Samuel Olunlade Adelaja, Mr. Gilbert Dehinde Ifarajimi, Dr. Temitope Olamide Fagbemi, and particularly, Dr. Opeyemi Akinniyi, who was never tired to render assistance to me anytime she was called upon for such. Opeyemi, I thank you so much in particular and I appreciate all of you in general. I should not forget to thank my big brother, Chief Dr. John Abidemi Johnson (JAJ) who encouraged and supported me financially and morally to commence and conclude my Ph.D. programme. I thank you so much sir.

My appreciation also goes to those who offered me assistance in gathering data for this research work. In this respect, my special thanks go to the following wonderful people: Mr. Bicci Alli, Board Secretary, Lagos State Board of Internal Revenue; Mr. Kehinde Aderibigbe, Director of Finance, Lagos State Internal Revenue Service; Mrs. Shakirat Adepeju Babatunde, Director of Accounts, Lagos State Ministry of Justice; Mr. Olaniyi Popoola and Miss Beauty Ipaye, both of the Lagos State Internal Revenue Service. Mr. Amonia Korubo and Mr. John Tite, both of them, tirelessly assisted in the administration of my questionnaire; Mr. Solomon Oluwole Olufemi Alabi is also appreciated for giving me solidarity. Lastly, Mr. Biodun Sulaimon of the Lagos State Internal Audit who assisted in no small measure, in getting some relevant information for the research work.

My profound gratitude goes to my loving and accommodating parents; my late father, Chief Emmanuel Adebisi Ajani Adeyeye was an exemplary disciplined leader who imbibed in me the culture of discipline, hard work, self-determination, self-control, perseverance, dedication to just courses and fairness to all people. How I wish I could have obtained my Ph.D. during your life-time. My sweet mother, Chief (Mrs.) Rebecca Mogbonjubola Arinke Adeyeye exemplifies the quality of motherhood. She always stood by me, come rain or sun-shine, and tirelessly shared my concerns. She had been very interested in my educational advancement, right from my formative years, thus her moral, financial and spiritual support, and fervent prayers culminated in my educational success. Mama, I pray that what my father was not able to enjoy from his children during his life-time, you will live to enjoy them in abundance with good health. By the special grace of God Almighty, mama, you will reap the good fruits of your labour.

The support by my dearest loving wife, Chief (Mrs.) Olabode Ajoke Adeyeye cannot be underestimated. She stood by me like a solid rock during the cause of my educational travails, by indefatigably supporting me morally, financially and spiritually. She was never tired to encourage me to work hard towards the attainment of my Ph.D. My dear I thank you for always being there for me. I acknowledge the support and encouragement enjoyed from my siblings: Sunday Adebiyi Akanmu Adeyeye, Adesoji Akanji Adeyeye, Adebayo Abefe Adeyeye, Adeyinka Aremu Adeyeye, Adedoyin Abeke Olanubi and late Folashade Ajike Osho. I pray that God Almighty will reward those of you living abundantly, while praying for the late to have eternal rest in the bosom of God Almighty.

Their understanding, discipline, good comportment, co-operation and encouragement motivated me to complete this study. I thank all of you and pray that God Almighty will give you the strength, power, knowledge and wisdom to excel in your educational pursuits.

ABSTRACT

Good governance has been suggested in the literature, to be very crucial to taxation and tax compliance. It has been argued that tax compliance will improve if there is accountability and transparency in the way public funds are managed by elected leaders. This argument appears to suggest that “good governance” by those saddled with the responsibility of managing the resources of any nation is key to voluntary tax compliance. These challenges informed the concern of this study to examine the “impact of taxpayers’ perception of good governance on voluntary tax compliance”. This study is anchored on the theory of planned behaviour (TPB) because it is considered an appropriate theoretical framework with the tendency of providing a better understanding of taxpayers’ intention and behaviour toward voluntary tax compliance in Nigeria. Both primary and secondary sources were used to gather data for this study. Furthermore, the study adopted a cross-sectional survey approach with the use of a structured questionnaire for the primary data. A population of 11,900 tradesmen and artisans, belonging to seventeen trade associations in the twenty constitutionally recognised local government areas of Lagos State was established. A sample size of 3,400 participants was randomly selected from these groups of taxpayers and a 64% usable response rate was achieved. Cronbach alpha values of above 0.70 for each of the variables suggest good reliability indices. Descriptive statistics, regression analysis, correlation analysis, Chi-square and Cross-tabulation statistics were used to analyse the data gathered for the study. The outcome of the study suggests that all the components, representing good governance in this study (accountability and transparency, reduction in fiscal corruption, efficient and effective tax administration, efficient and effective tax laws and tax policies, and socio-economic considerations) have varying degrees of relationship with voluntary tax compliance and that the relationships are significant at  $p < 0.01$ . However, taxpayers’ perception of socio-economic considerations has the most outstanding relationship with voluntary tax compliance, with correlation coefficient,  $r = 0.789$  at  $p < 0.01$  and coefficient of determination,  $r^2 = 0.569$  ( $\approx 57\%$ ). Empirical evidence from this study suggests that good governance, represented by all the independent variables combined, has greater impact on the dependent variable than any of the individual independent variables. Findings from this study form the basis for providing some recommendations (such as redirection of taxing efforts to the informal sector and up-holding and sincere practice of good governance) aimed at improving voluntary tax compliance in Nigeria.
