Using the New Media as Teaching Tool in Educational Institution in Nigeria

By
DURODOLU, Oluwole Olumide
and
ALABI, Adefunke Olanike (Mrs.)
Library Department
University of Lagos, Akoka, Lagos

Abstract
The paper discusses contemporary issues of how new media technology can be used as teaching tool in educational institution in Nigeria. Teaching and learning is one of the most challenging enterprises of the modem educational institute. Teachers and students face complex challenge is based on the advent of Information Communication Technology. The role of teachers has become more dynamic and challenging in the modem world. This paper covers some aspect of how new media technology can be used effectively to impart knowledge and make learning more attractive to students. This paper outlines and discusses the new media that can be used for teaching and learning and the necessary skills teachers must acquire.